OMERS PENSIONS

OMERS Pension Fund has accumulated a huge surplus and has accumulated far more assets than it requires in order to pay the future pensions of its members. Because of this huge surplus they have just received permission to reduce the future contributions of both their members and the participating employers. This is of significant importance in the valuation of an OMERS pension. If you are acting for the spouse of an OMERS member, you should ensure that:

1. The member's share of excess contributions and interest has been included in the valuation.
2. Indexing at 100% of the rate of inflation (increase in CPI) has been assumed. Indexing at 70% should not even be considered. Otherwise the pension may be undervalued.
